

User Story

//Made Jane more specific

A user named Jane has always been bullied due to her weight. Because of this, she has been working toward a better lifestyle. One day, Jane had just finished making herself a yummy three course meal. Then, she realizes that she has a lot of random ingredients leftover that she didn't use when cooking. The thing is, Jane does not want to throw the ingredients away, but she also does not know how to make meals from the leftover ingredients. Jane is attempting to try something new where she wants to eat and be healthier. As a user, Jane would be able to utilize our application to generate healthier recipes based on the ingredients she inputs. The objective of the application is to be able to take in one ingredient from the user and output a maximum of three recipes that are healthy containing that particular ingredient. This application will aid users in accessing and determining recipes in a quick and efficient way while trying to maintain a healthy, balanced diet.
